

Funded Warehouse & Forklift Training

The Brief

MW was unemployed and was referred to us by the DWP to obtain Warehouse & Forklift training to improve his job prospects and personal confidence.

A number of those referred to us suffer from a range of learning barriers which include anxiety, English as a second language, Dyslexia or have home responsibilities that can impact their learning.

During the 18 days of training, social, personal and occupational skills were developed to aid the search for employment. Our method is to deliver these skills in a relaxed manner from our simulated mock warehouse, so students are able to get a true experience of working in this sector.

The Solution

On day 1, MW talked openly about his memories from school and commented that this training program appeared completely different. As the program progressed, MW mentioned that he wished to become a plumber when he was younger but has discounted this due to his age and that he didn't pay much attention in school.

We worked with MW during his time with us and helped him with his CV and looked at possible apprenticeship opportunities.

When he left us 18 days later, he held additional qualifications in Transport & Distribution and his forklift license, along with renewed confidence and personal motivation.

The Results

Email received from MW after he completed his training:

Hiya KPT,

I hope you're all doing Fantastic !

Unfortunately the forklift job didn't work out, but I've been put on a apprenticeship scheme by the Job centre and pretty much everything that was open to me at 16 has been reopened at 38.

Don't think it would have happened if I hadn't spent a few weeks with you guys at KPT so thankyou all for everything and I'll see you around.

Take care

The Customer

We were able to deliver these skills and qualifications due to our partnership with New College Swindon during 2024/2025.

We are able to access the Adult Skills Fund and provide this highly relevant training to our local communities to ensure the most vulnerable demographics are able to access the skills and training they need to progress.

Can we help you?

We're helping employers ensure they're compliant with current regulations and we're enhancing the skills of employees and those looking to improve their employment opportunities.
